

Contents

List of Figures and Table ix

List of Abbreviations xi

Introduction: A Tale of Two Ontologies: Are Humans
Designated or Discovered? / 1

1. Ontology and Embryos: On Being an Embryo / 20
2. Arguments from Ontology: “It can’t be human because it contradicts, ontologically” / 46
3. Arguments from Potential: “It can’t be human because it contradicts, factually” / 77
4. from Observation: “It could be human, but the facts suggest otherwise” / 106
5. Developmental Systems Theory and “Fuzzy” Organisms:
“It’s not human until we say it’s human” / 133
6. The Postmodern Connection: Form, Fiat, and Intention / 147
7. Humans and Organization: Defining the Hallmarks of Human Existence / 177

8. Some Difficult Cases: A Practical Guide for Evaluation / 195

9. A Contested Case: Altered Nuclear Transfer: How to Evaluate Entities Produced by Experimenters / 223

Epilogue: Metaphysics Matters / 259

Glossary 265

Bibliography 271

Index 283