The article 'Giorgia Meloni Questions Archbishop Vincenzo Paglia's Appointment' by Sakchi Khandelwal is completely false and invented. Remove it from the site, apologize to your readers. Catholic Archbishop Vincenzo Paglia is president of the Pontifical Academy for Life, and remains so. Fabrizio Mastrofini - Director of Communications - Pontifical Academy for Life - Vatican City.

The news about the Pontifical Academy for Life is false and to quote the Academy in this way and in this context is misleading.

Mail to Mr. Olson:

Dear Mr. Olson, at the end of this "interview," the Pontifical Academy for Life is mentioned. To quote the Pontifical Academy for Life in this way and in this context is misleading. And it is serious because, in good faith, some of the readers might actually believe what is stated in the Footnote. Any association with Dr. Nigel Biggar, who is a serious scholar and is no longer our Academician, is also completely wrong. This manipulation of the positions of the Pontifical Academy for Life, which is misrepresented and caricatured, is also gravely detrimental to your honorability as an online "Catholic" - perhaps - but definitely untrustworthy online newspaper. Thank you for your attention.
